

Brno opens its research capacities to companies from all over the world. Innovation vouchers available till May 2nd.

Following three successful calls since 2009, South Moravian Innovation Centre launches its fourth call for innovation vouchers, today. For the first time, applications may be submitted by innovative companies all over the world.

Subsidies worth up to 4.000 EUR will cover 75 % of the overall costs of the pursued projects. The city of Brno will distribute more than 160.000 EUR in total. Companies are encouraged to innovate their products, services or processes working in cooperation with one of the knowledge providers. The research focus of the knowledge providers covers wide variety of scientific fields.

Applications can be submitted online at www.innovationvouchers.cz until May 2nd. All the applications will enter a public ballot on May 17th. The final voucher recipients should finish their research projects till June 2013.
